MOTIVATION AND STRATEGY

The Copernicus Marine Environment Monitoring Service (CMEMS –marine.copernicus.eu) has been operational since May 2015.

The excellent CMEMS user response (+7000 subscribers today) is a real incentive to pursue and boost a strategy built on an open and free service and support to the development of downstream services. The CMEMS users and more specifically “intermediate users”, service providers themselves, are key to the success of the service. They bring an expert added-value to specialised markets to leverage the existing economic activity.

With the User Uptake, Mercator Océan aims to reinforce its relationship with its intermediate users, to explain and enhance the CMEMS service and the services of these key players. This is based on their direct involvement to ease the CMEMS use and promote inspiring exemplary cases which will contribute to the development of the whole chain.

In practice, Mercator Océan wishes to identify the successful elements of the service relationship between CMEMS and its users, to display and bring visibility to the services of its users and on CMEMS. The illustration with concrete examples will raise interest of new users and allow communities to exchange on a specific topic and propose relevant evolutions to the current European service.

This User Uptake component will accompany CMEMS during all its operations and evolutions and will take the shape of several successive markets. For this first wave, a thematic priority is been set on the coastal area. Other themes will be addressed during the following stages to continue answering user needs.

1. CONTEXT

A Delegation Agreement has been signed between the European Commission and Mercator Océan for the Copernicus Marine Environment Monitoring Service (CMEMS) implementation. The Copernicus Marine Service provides regular and systematic reference information on the physical state and dynamics of the ocean and marine ecosystems for the global ocean and the European regional seas. This capacity encompasses the description of the current situation (analysis), the prediction of the situation a few days ahead (forecast), and the provision of consistent retrospective data records for recent years (re-analysis).

CMEMS provides a sustainable response to European user needs in four areas of benefits that are:

- coastal and marine environment,
- maritime safety,
- marine resources,
- climate, seasonal and weather forecasting.

The areas of benefits and their sub-categories are listed in the CMEMS registration form, paragraph 2.2 (<http://marine.copernicus.eu/web/56-user-registration-form.php>)

The delegation agreement between the European Commission and Mercator Océan requires the development and the implementation of a User Uptake strategy to firstly secure the loyalty of its users and secondly to attract new user communities. This component is complementary to the long term “service evolution” which allows for R&D evolutions according to users’ needs and applications. These two components feed the CMEMS service by proposing evolution and innovation both on the upstream and downstream aspects that can then be an integral part of the service.

The first User Uptake contracts focus on demonstrations of coastal and operational downstream CMEMS services, including those linked to the EU Marine Strategy Framework Directive (www.msfd.eu) and an inventory of mobile application that use CMEMS products. Forthcoming User Uptake contracts will require other demonstrations of coastal and open sea downstream services targeting geographical domains and areas of benefits not provided for in previous contracts, as well as tool development, always taking into account users’ needs.

CMEMS will mention the names of the organisations at the origin of the demonstrations or the tools, purchased by Mercator Océan, which will be displayed on its own website in different pages, including the one that will be created to increase the visibility of the chosen services, tools and applications, object of the User Uptake tenders.
